I have two hats that are my favs. One is a baseball style hat from one of those fly shops I visit from time to time and I don't know if it is lucky but I am so use to having with me I think it has something that I miss when I go without it. The only other hat I have that I would consider wearing is a felt cowboy hat, if it is raining or colder out.

Like pcray said when it comes to felt, it may not keep me dry all day and it has taken a beating and looks like it too. But I love that hat. I get made fun of sometimes when I wear it when I go with some of my fishing buddies. But I wear it knowing they are going to do that. When it was new I use to tell them that they were jealous because they were afraid to make a statement with a big cowboy, but as ugly as it is now I know that it is not the case any more.

Both of them are GREAT hats!
