

---

Subject: : Gear Talk

Topic: : Leader system

Re: Leader system

Author: : podflyguy

Date: : 2013/2/13 8:26:42

URL:

I honestly wasn't quite sure what a furred leader was until I googled it last night after reading mutzinbaugh's post. The concept seems to really simplify things. I wonder whether I could accomplish the same thing by just tying a few different butt/mid sections and simply tying in a tippet ring at the end. My question is whether I use a furred leader or a hand tied leader, if there is a large difference in material diameter between 1 side of the tippet ring and the other, won't that cause a severe hinge? It seems like you would still have to taper down from the tippet ring, but that would defeat the purpose.