I always have a few extra tapered leader tied up and in my vest. I coil each and put them in a zip lock bag.

I also tie up extra tippet sections from 2X down and keep those the same way.

I label each of the baggies with a sharpie and put them in zip lock freezer bag.

the whole think is real compact and means I only carry 2 or 3 spools of tippet with me and when I get hung up or wind up with a birdsnest, it is much less frustrating to just clip off the old and tie on a new instead of wasting time untangling and re-tyeing.

It is much easier to sit at the kitchen tabel for a half hour and tie up leaders than when you are on the stream.

Just an idea.
