I think it matters to a degree what you're used to and what you learned on. I'm right handed, and cast right handed, but I've only ever reeled with my left hand. Spinning, baitcaster, fly reel...whatever. My Dad (right handed) casts right and reels left on spinning reels, but casts right and reels right handed while FFing...because he learned on a right hand retrieve fly reel.

I don't do anything else very well left handed, but muscle memory or whatever makes reeling feel much more natural with my left hand because it's all I've ever done. I'm certain I could reel more quickly and efficiently with my left hand at this point than my right, even when reeling on backing. FWIW.
