

Subject: : Beginner Forum

Topic: : Lesson in humility at Little Lehigh

Re: Lesson in humility at Little Lehigh

Author: : Fishidiot

Date: : 2013/2/13 22:45:15

URL:

Weaves,
Sounds like a day you got "schooled." Still happens to us who've been fishing for years - esp on tough streams like the LL.

My guess would be the bugs you saw were stoneflies. Tricos come off in summertime and midges are very small (although they do come off in winter).