Dam Jack,

Edit: Haha, just reread. Thinking you might have meant Gordon's. Not gonna Pete the post because it's not often I get to make a cheesy stone fly pun. 😊

I was talking about QGs. Stoneflies can appear anytime it gets a bit warm now. And since there is so many, there is so much diversity, that you may get a short-lived prolific hatch at this time of year with BSFs.

PS, I purposely used abbreviations. Not to save typing, obviously, but to try to appear more knowledgeable than I am.
