20mil is what runs through their books. Securing a 1mil or whatever amount state or federal grant or other private conserancy grant doesn't always run through their books. An org like tu has the ability to access these funds and these funds get spent on something and there are a lot of companies who want to be the ones who get this money.

All I'm saying is which projects get attention doesn't necessarily mean those are the most deserving. If there are 10 projects looking for funding and only enough money to fund 5, those projects with the most push behind them get the money and the push isn't necessarily for the most needed projects.
