Jake caught a 20" rainbow a few years ago...thats one. Anyone else? 1 out of 250,000 doesn't make a make a fishery.

Maurice,

I have caught (and released) a couple nice sized rainbows near the shore while I was nymph fishing for bluegills.

Every spring (as Mike explained) they put a truckload of stockers into the lake. Usually several places, but last year the whole truck was dumped in at "Sailboat Launch". Everybody caught like crazy for three days, then the trout dispersed and none were caught there again.

I've noticed hundreds of Cormorants appearing right after they stock the trout! I know they are protected, but I wish the duck hunters would take their shotguns in their boats and shoot as many as they can! Both islands get packed with the dirty birds every spring.

I see that they stock Crappie by the tens of thousands every year. That is the best fish for that lake. Muskies and Trout and Walleye and even Bass are OK, but the Crappie and Bluegill are the fishing fun IMHO! White Perch are also OK, I'm so glad someone put them in the lake!
