

Subject: : Gear Talk

Topic: : Fly Box Organization

Re: Fly Box Organization

Author: : jeremymcon

Date: : 2013/2/18 20:31:57

URL:

Well I'm still a bit of a newbie, but I generally carry 1 compartment box for dry flies - my fly collection isn't that large, so it works. I also carry a really small compartment box for midges, bwo's, and any other dry smaller than size 18.

I carry one Morell foam box full of nymphs on one side and egg, worms, and soft hackles on the other side. Then I generally have a streamer box with me with trout streamers. I have a second streamer box full of bass-specific flies that I only carry when I'm targeting bass.

I think as I accumulate more flies I'll start carrying a more hatch- or season-specific selection of flies - there's really no good reason for me to have hoppers and sulphurs on me when I'm fishing in the middle of winter. Just so happens that they all fit in my fly box right now!