The Feathered Hook always looked appealing. Never stayed there, but it looks nice, great location, and it's always nice to support Jonas.

The Milheim hotel is terrible.

Last year we went up in April, and we rented a cabin at 7 mountains. Same CG as the jam. Just one of the primitive ones, small fridge, microwave, little table, 2 bunks, and that's it.

It was great. Early in the trip it was dropping below freezing at night, even snowed one night. They give you a little space heater but it does the job just fine, cabin was warm and toasty. It's really closer to Poe Paddy than Coburn is. You just cross directly over 322 and take the dirt road in, maybe 25 minutes. Yet it's out on the paved road, and in the right direction, that a trip into State College is easy for groceries and such, and the LJR and Spring are fishing options should Penns be blown out (which is possible/likely in April).
