Foxgap: "Anyway, Echo Carbon is closing out last year's model's and I saw their 6'6" 3wt rod on sale for $127.99. Usually $170 or $180. Of course, if you have a friend who is cleaning out his stock, you can get it for much less."

The OP asked about a 4wt and the 3 wt echo should be great brookie rod with a 4w line. ... A 3wt rod is made to cast the weight of approx 30 ft of 3 wt line. For shorter casting, a heavier line is better; 25 ft of 4 wt line weighs about as much as 30 ft of 3 wt line. And you might cast 25 ft for brookies, Foxgap, if you stand as far back as possible to avoid spooking the fish!
