I'm so amped to find out that the little shenango in mercer county is going to be trout stocked this spring. I live in Greenville in which the stream passes through. With only starting fly fishing this past august however, I've only fished the little shenango maybe once or twice. I'm checking to see if anyone on here has fished the little shenango specifically for trout and where some hot spots are. I might try and attend the stocking to see where exactly they are placing the fish.
