That's one stream I want to fish one of these days since it's on the way up to the families cottage. I don't know of any good access points, but I never really spent some time looking for any either. Just kinda drove over some bridge crossings a few times, but never found any good ones yet.

The best thing to do is go and help out with the stockings, which I would love to do with a lot of streams but they all happen to be on weekdays.
