Your points are well taken. Actually the app is designed exactly as you suggest.

All navigation is provided by the existing Google Maps app or Apple navigation and the app is designed to visualize the data however it also passes specific latitude and longitude coordinates as destinations to the supplied navigation software. If you look at the two key questions as follows.

1. "Where do I fish?" is answered by the app and its data
2. "How do I get there?" is answered with the destinations data provided to the navigation software from the app.

Suggestions are always welcome!
