I coil some up on empty tippet spools. I only use them in the winter when I rig up in the warmth of my living room and then loop - loop the rig in the field. The rest of the year I want to observe a little before rigging up.

The older I get the more important I find checking out the conditions before rigging up are and I'm not in a rush to get into the stream. Watching is not wasted time in my experience, and slowing down gets me in the watching frame of mind.
