I have heard the story also from George, but in his book he credits the Frenchie to Lace.

Yup - page 161 - "Egan's Frenchie". Lance added a UV pink ice dubbing hot spot to a Frenchie, and called it "Egan's Frenchie". Doesn't mean Lance "invented" the Frenchie (he didn't). It's a simple bead head pheasant tail that the French just added a hot spot to.

Let's say Becker tied up a Frenchie and added a purple UV ice dubbing collar - and called it Becker's Frenchie. He didn't invent the Frenchie, he just changed one small detail and claimed it as his "invention".

See how this works?
