Until rather recently, I would have said may. But as I get older, I really appreciate fishing in april now. You have nice big flies - quill gordons, hendrickson, and grannoms - that hatch in the middle of the day. And even get spinner falls with a few hours of daylight left.

No waiting around until dark for the fish to start rising good.

And all this right after the long cold winter is over, and I haven't fished for 3-4 months

Hard to beat it IMO.

Also really enjoy fishing BWO's in march - again daytime hatches
