I'm calm, I'm calm! I just find the humor in naming our mini-jam the "Quill Gordon Summit", yet we run the risk of missing the QG yet again! Last year some swore we picked a date that was too early, we ended up being too late. This year, who knows? It's not REALLY about the hatch, of course. I don't think anyone was complaining last year about the QG Summit turning into the March Brown Summit!

Don't worry, there's NO quill gordons hatching yet! The way the extended forecast looks like things should be fine. They are calling for colder than normal temps for the next couple of weeks. So, as long as we don't get some very high temps things should be normal.
