1wt, I haven't heard of Nanofil before. I looked it up on-line

Yeah, it's the newest super line. The NanoFil I use is a translucent (you don't need a flouro tippet) and the 2lb test is .002 diameter. That's the thinnest line in the world.

Longest casting also. No memory, and no stretch at all. It's actually better than Power Pro.

But for leader, it has no memory, so it won't turn over your fly. I would say a spool of fluorocarbon is a much better deal for a fly rod.
