A friend of mine who is new to fly fishing recently asked me what dry flies he should get, and to be honest I just said Adams, EHC's and royal wulfs. But now I kind of feel bad, most of our fishing is done in NC PA, so I wondered what would a dozen good dry flies be to get him through the year, I mean there are so many, what do you guys reccomend, I rarely dry fish, I exclusively nymph for the most part and I'm kind of looking into this as well any help is appreciated. I just dont want to overlook something and have him say thanks a-hole
