Coty, I'm probably pretty accurate up to 15-20 or so. Beyond that, it's an estimate. You count them in bunches.

You get to 15 or so and stop counting. An hour later, you stop to estimate your total. I had 15, then I got 1 in that hole, 2 in the next one, then 4 between X and Y, then I think it was 3 more between Y and here. So I must be at 25 or so. An hour later you do it again.

And on a high number day, rarely do I have an exact count at the end. It's always "60ish" or something along those lines, which realistically means plus or minus 5, with the error bar growing as the total climbs.
