I have a one wt. and it doesn't get the use my 4 or 5 weights get. BUT it is kick-a$$ fun for bluegills. And fishing small flies it is a great tool. I have landed trout up to 23 inches with the rod. I wasn't necessarily expecting to hook a fish so large, but what the hell you gonna do? Break him off? I also got about a five or six pound carp on the rod, which was way too much fish. I thought I was going to end up with a warrenty claim. So IMHO if you can afford to keep the rod, then do so.
