408? Yikes!

I think mine is one of the last generations of 408's. Bought it new in '79-ish along with the Fenwick Streamside UL rod you see in the pic. In '89 I had the rod's original wire guides replaced with Fuji single foot ceramics because they were grooved. Only issue I ever had with the 408 was with the bail not wanting to stay open: snapping closed in mid-cast....easily resolved with a little tune-up. Other than that, it's been a go-to combo for me for 30-something years.

Apologies to all for side tracking this thread.
