Mo, my 'bows were likely holdovers. They had nice color to them. The browns were all freshly stocked. I am extremely spoiled this winter because of catching all wild browns, which made those stocker browns look pretty fugly...

Its pretty easy to tell the difference on the fresh stockers and the holdovers from the fall. One h-o brown from below was a spring stocked fish from 2012. There is a good mix of fish at Muddy this year for sure.
