Yesterday at the Lancaster Fly Fishing Show a group of us were shooting the breeze near the casting pool while Lefty embarrassed caster after caster. Admittedly once he was done with them they cast better but I noticed something very conspicuous about this legend of the fly. He casts right handed. I felt deceived as in Lefty's deceiver....maybe thats where he came up with the name.

So, not being a name dropper and follower of the iconic figures in fly fishing, could someone tell me where he got the name Lefty?

And another pontification that occurred at the after party....when Humphreys, Kreh, Clouser and the like are gone from the earth, who will entertain us at these shows? Who are the upcoming legends of the sport?
