Mend,

You've got one thing that's tough to teach - a good attitude.

I'll give you the same advise I gave to a young man that was at the youth world championships a few years ago - he was bummed at being an alternate, and wasn't fishing (Danny Marino).

Do your best to attend the clinic if possible. Watch carefully, and learn all you can. Stay positive, and listen rather than speak. Be a "team player" - teamwork is essential to be successful in this scenario.

If you are really dedicated, your time will come - Danny has a gold medal to show for his efforts. I'm sure the fun, friends, and valuable life lessons he got from being involved with the Youth Team are more valuable to him.

And don't neglect your schoolwork. 😊
