He casts right handed. I felt deceived as in Lefty's deceiver....maybe thats where he came up with the name.

So, not being a name dropper and follower of the iconic figures in fly fishing, could someone tell me where he got the name Lefty?

He is in fact left handed, and used to cast that way. He tore his left shoulder apart while helping his wife turn over a mattress many years ago, and had to learn to cast right handed. (Actually, he already could, since he used to demonstrate casting with a rod in each hand, just to show that it's all in the timing.) He's been casting right handed ever since, and it's probably easier to instruct people if you're casting with the same hand as they are.
