

Subject: : Warm Water & Salt Water Fly-Fishing

Topic: : Optimal Temps for WW Fishing

Re: Optimal Temps for WW Fishing

Author: : afishinado

Date: : 2013/3/4 10:43:26

URL:

Here is a link with optimal temps for all kinds of fish: <http://www.outdoorlife.com/weather/water>

You can catch SM bass in 35* water, but they become most active in water around 70*.

With that being said, the optimal time is fish, is whenever you can.

I do suggest, to stack the odds more in your favor, fish for coldwater fish like trout in colder water and WW (actually coolwater) fish like smallies when the temps are more favorable.

I really like the change of seasons, and change up the type of fish I pursue based on the time of year. All fun.