
Subject: : Paflyfish General Forum

Topic: : Northern Ireland trout

Re: Northern Ireland trout

Author: : geebee

Date: : 2013/3/4 18:37:18

URL:

Quote:

Plus no snakes, w00t w00t!!!

as my grandmother used to say - the only snakes in Ireland are two legged ones....

Dry Fly Guy, the big cost like yellowstone, BC, Alaska etc is the flights.

probably about $700 an angler. once you get there you can share a 4x4 for about $600 between you, and a house/cottage for about $450 a week self catering (read fish n chips after the evening rise...) for four.

or about $55 a night B&B.

thats near a major salmon river or the big lakes - for small streams in tipperary or somewhere like that, most pubs have rooms above and some have 'some fishing...ask Tom at the hardware store..."

and tbh i'd avoid the big lakes, as one they are huge (no sonar in Ireland) and two, they are very very weather dependent. you have to get the week just right or the big browns just don't co-operate.

imho small streams freestyling is the way to go.

though for Salmon, i have compared it and its cheaper to fish the Moy or the Blackwater than the Gaspé or Marimachi , starting from NYC.

