"As I write this, Pennsylvania's misnamed Department of Environmental Protection and their pals in the PAFBC are busy selling the natural gas out from under the rivers, lakes and land to the detriment of the natural environment."

"A prescription for the PA model: selling out natural gas from under a lake to pay for its upkeep. This kind of "partnership" is about as desirable for the general public as one between the American Cancer Society and the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company."

just too snarky. large eye roll. I see the PFBC doing a lot of good, and if they get gas rights $ and do good things for trout it's just too easy to write this righteous "selling out" stuff...

access and conservation are political issues, and while people may vent online, I sure hope that anyone with any actual role in negotiating such things doesn't come across like this...
