Its that time again to get the big sticks strung up and smell the sweet smell of Jerseys back bays and ocean. once the water hits 45 in the back bays its time to go. as of now I think this is winters last push but once the weekend comes I think we should be in the clear. in a month the bunker will be moving ocean side with 40 pound bass and gator blues underneath them. just want to see your spring goals and predictions. I am trying to get a bass bigger 20 pounds and this is the time to do it.

our fall season got destroyed along with a lot of jersey so we got to make up for lost time.
