I've been looking into a new flypole that was reasonably priced but still quality in the $100-$200 price range and have been looking into the Redington Crosswater and decided to check on here to see if you guys had any pros or cons that you could share about. Or any other pole/reel combo in that price range and would be good for starting out. I will be fishing in small to medium sized streams for brook and brown trout. Any info is appreciated i'm new to the sport.

Thanks Garrett Millen....
