I think it depends with your fishing background? if you are skilled in drifting bait, then you will have no problem nymphing or dry fly fishing. If your good at throwing hardware the wolly bugger will do well, and try to surround yourself with a couple of guys that know what theyre doing. The sooner you get out the better too, dont wait especially early in the season the fish are hungry and I find that they are easier to catch now rather than later, then after the guys get the itch off it gets easier again. starting with this week's warmup i think the fishing is going to be great!
