The Sage bass rod (actually they make a panfish, small mouth and large mouth version and I'm talking about the smallie rod) with the matching Sage line can toss a large wind resistant fly country mile but it's under 8' and the line is more like 10wt. It's not a trout rod and due to the length, it's not an ideal rod for wade fishing, especially when you start getting into deeper water. But if fishing from a boat this thing is great.

I don't own one but a friend does and I have tried it enough times to know I wouldn't waste my money on one unless I did a lot of bass fishing from a boat.
