I disagree with the trips falling off shortly. My son and I have been fly fishing together since he was 4. I got him casting by himself and this summer he will turn 6 and all I have to do is tie the fly on for him. I expect by the middle of this summer he will be doing that himself. It takes great patients to teach a youngster fly fishing, but if it gets us away from mama for a few hours it is worth it to both of us. Ha Ha. I would keep the rod and let him use it in a few years.
