

---

Subject: : Fly Fishing Locations

Topic: : You Know The Creek

You Know The Creek

Author: : fadeaway263

Date: : 2013/3/9 19:32:08

URL:

The tributary was 38 degrees and where it entered the main stem it was 41 degrees. Air temp was as high as 63 degrees. Me SROach the Prof and my son fished from 11 to 3. SROach and I volunteered from 9 to 11 in one section of the creek cutting vines that were choking out the trees. I became reacquainted with my chain saw. Had to spend $75 to refurbish it but it was worth every penny. Now I must say SROach and I spent more time stream side cutting down vines as opposed to other areas of the park. There were BWOs and Midges hatching all over the place. We saw schools of more than 100 Browns most of them small but a good number of 11/12 inchers. We fished drys emergers WWs hares ears but not one caught. I do want to say one thing though. We ran into a Valley Forge TU guy in the parking lot who told us to fish Stone Flies. Said it was the killer fly for this stream. Then he told us to to come to a VFTU meeting and buy some stuff. Yeah...after telling us to use a Fly that would catch no fish and then come to a TU meeting to buy stuff? Foxgap what kind of company are you keeping?