

Subject: : Gear Talk

Topic: : 2 weight rod - Will I really ever use it??

Re: 2 weight rod - Will I really ever use it??

Author: : k-bob

Date: : 2013/3/10 7:00:44

URL:

For fishing dries on valley creek, I think a lot of guys would catch more fish with a 2w than a 5w. You don't need long casts, and it's easier to avoid scaring the fish with a lighter line... I think that anyone willing to try casting a 2w like that ct overlined with a 3 would find it works great for this type of fishing..

Real world fishing on smallish streams is different from yard casting.. the 20-40 ft range where you catch fish looks like nothing in a yard, and there are no yard fish to spook with a heavier line than you really need.