Now that is a little disturbing because I was in an Orvis dealer store who also carried TFO rods and when I noticed that the TFO rod have a "Made in. KOREA " sticker the salesman (not the owner) specifically told me Orvis rods were made in China..... Since I really like this shop I'm going to assume he was just misinformed.....

All the above rod mfg I listed are still made in the US.

To answer you question about Orvis, here is a link to the Orvis line of rods:

No research needed. Orvis Streamline, Clearwater and Frequent Flyer (travel rods) are close to the $200 price point and clearly marked as imported.

All other rods Orvis rods - Access, Superfine, Helios, and Helios2 are made in the USA.
