Sounds like you already had your mind made up and nit picked a reason out of an encounter with someone you could blame for your stance. You know if you look hard enough you can find an excuse to satisfy your lack of interest in doing something positive.

IN a volunteer outfit like TU you can pretty much boil the membership down to "lead, follow or get out of the way" You were firmly in the middle class until the last sentence of post one and post two. And that is the meat of TU. Carrying out the vision and leadership decisions of the local chapter. But now you are in the way by trashing a guy for making a joke about pricker bushes.
