

Subject: : Conservation

Topic: : Fishing Creek at Tylersville Hatchery

Re: Fishing Creek at Tylersville Hatchery

Author: : Fishidiot

Date: : 2013/3/11 8:31:19

URL:

Like many fish hatcheries in PA, this one has had some (minor) issues with effluent over the years. The white gunk/algae is a common by- product of these hatcheries. The dead fish may have come from the hatchery but if not, this is a greater issue of concern and should definitely be checked out. There's a phone number for the Tylersville hatchery on the PFBC website - give 'em a call and describe what you saw. I'd send an email too and copy DEP. Make sure in the phone call/emails you use your name and the date you saw this so they know it's the same report from the same concerned fishermen.