I'm looking for a recommendation if its worth the price to buy the access over the clearwater. Also, is a 6 wt sufficient for smaller dry flies? (I'm not talking size 28 midges or anything like that)

The Access is far superior.

Yes you can use a 6wt with small flies but it is not as optimal as using a lighter line weight. You'll find the line overpowering the leader and fly at times, making it difficult to get good presentations. Adjustments to your leader can overcome some of this. I would personally prefer a 4 or 5wt for this type of fishing, but I've done it a 6wt.
