

Subject: : Stream Reports

Topic: : Tulpehocken Creek, Berks Co, 3/09/13

Re: Tully

Author: : wbranch

Date: : 2013/3/11 12:49:18

URL:

Lestrout wrote;

"Sounds like the winter holdover may not have fared well."

I consider myself to be at least an average nymph and I nymphed diligently from about 100 yards above Rebers Bridge twice with only one sucker that inhaled a #16 red Copper John. After the first nymph run at Rebers Bridge I went up to the Water Street water, near the dam, and crossed at the gage and walk upstream at least 400' and nymphed my way back. The water is quite low and I never had a touch nor did I see a single trout scoot away. Even below the gage where the water is a little deeper and you often see fish rising was totally dead.

Sorry I omitted data; It was Saturday March 09, Berks County, I fished from 11:00 - 3:00. I spoke to five other guys in those two areas and only one guy, caught one fish, down at the Rte 222 bridge. So maybe the fish stocked in the fall did not due very well or maybe they are hiding.