

Subject: : Gear Talk

Topic: : 2 weight rod - Will I really ever use it??

Re: 2 weight rod - Will I really ever use it??

Author: : JakesLeakyWaders

Date: : 2013/3/11 13:56:34

URL:

For all of you saying nope, have you even owned a 2 weight ?

I have a 7'3" #2 and a 7'9" #4, both Tfo finesse series rods and there is a considerable difference between the two.

I wouldn't go to a small clear stream without my #2 since I've gotten used to having it. Honestly, for small, low clear streams and small dries and nymphs it is the absolute best rod I own. If I'm only casting 20-30 ft with size 16-18 hares ears, foam ant, griffiths gnat or whatever it is perfect. I don't catch overhanging branches and it hardly makes a ripple on the water.

For some of you who fish larger water I can agree this rod might be useless but for the smaller streams I like to visit it is the right tool.