Thanks a bunch guys... This has been very helpful and amusing. I enjoy the humor! This fly fishing thing has really taken over lately and Im truly thankful for the opportunity to learn from a big group of people. I went out after work to a nice stream today, it was blown out. San juan worm got stuck and lost and it was extremely windy. I used some of the earlier advice though and thought that it seemed a little better. I will definitely try all the others advice as well. Hopefully I will get to the point of landing a lot more fish. Am I fishing them or are they fishing me???
