I have Sunclouds and don't like them any better than the cheap pair of Gander Mountain specials that I had and lost. The optics are OK but they hurt my face and steam up allot. My husband worked in the ski business and I once owned a pair of Bolle's for penny's on the dollar and I wish I still had them. They are great glasses. (I am not kind to sunglasses)

My son has Smith Opticals and while the optics are better they hurt his face with pressure points. A friend lent him a pair of Oakleys for last years comps and he hasn't found better optics since. I finally broke down and bought him an early Birthday gift and ordered him a pair of his own. They were a bit more than the Smith Optics but check out the website. You get what you pay for. If you take as good of care of a pair of sunglasses as you would your Grand Pappy's inherited bamboo rod, spend the extra $$$. If you trash your like me the $9.99 Gander specials work fine and you don't have to have a funeral if they should demise.
