I'm sure I recommended Oakley earlier in this thread, but I don't feel like going back through to see. Wetnet's post is going to get me talking about it again.

Oakley, hands down, is the best pair of sunglasses I've ever owned. I forget I'm wearing them half the time, and I've had them for over five years... still look like new.

I paid almost $200 for them, but it's been worth every penny.

The price has gone down, but if you get a pair of these and don't like them, I'll give you 85% of what you paid for them. That's how much I like them.

Of course, you should get the polarized lenses for an extra $50.
