My advice to the OP is to attach an indicator at around 2X the water depth and work on getting you fly down using the proper amount of weight and drifting the indicator drag-free through a run or pool.

Here is a link with rigs and techniques for several methods of nymphing including "high sticking" and the "Leisenring lift" and swinging wets.

For those looking to try Euro style nymphing without an indicator, here is a link showing different rigs and techniques used for Euro nymphng:
