I have a regular mesh net, nothings wrong with it so I'm gonna keep using it instead of getting a rubber one. If you do start carrying one get the connector that has magnets on both ends of the cord, one on the net the other on your vest. I carry mine on my back. Very easy to reconnect. Nets tend to catch on bushes and briars when walking the bank, but if you're mindfull of it it's not to bad. When you catch a large fish you'll be glad you have one. I carry it most of the time when I go out, but not when chasing brookies, that to me would be an effort in frustration.
