

---

Subject: : Fly Tying

Topic: : stonefly dry

Re: stonefly dry

Author: : BradFromPotter

Date: : 2013/3/16 15:40:23

URL:

Quote:

sandfly wrote:

most times the fish are taking egg layers with a splashy riseform. I tie a sz 18 gold pupa hook with a white bead resembling the egg cluster 4" behind the early stone fly adult . 90% of time they take the egg cluster. for other stoneflys/caddis/mayflies i use different colors to match natural

b.w.o.=blk or dk. green

iso = dk. green

yellow sally = red

I remember reading an article by Art Lee about mayfly eggs patterns several years ago.