Paul,

Nice story. You write well.

You and others who sound intimidated by writing ought to continue to write. If nothing else, keep a journal. I have for 40 years, and it is kind of interesting, to me at least, to read over things from the past while staying warm near the woodburner in the dead of winter. Who knows, you might even get the bug to try to get one of your stories published. This story is certainly better than many that have made it into print. Anyhow, I encourage you continue to write. Nice job.
